Advice to Brides

Keep your hands soft and lovely! You can even if you do all your own work—a new idea in household soap. Pure soap!

When a girl loses hand beauty she loses half her charm.

Ugly rough hands are unnecessary. They are without excuse.

Yet 3 housewives in 4 have them—hands that tell kitchen secrets.

Why

Strong laundry soaps used for dishwashing, for household cleaning, are the reason.

Most contain 25% to 40% adulterant. Of 28 popular brands recently tested 27 were thus treated!

Soak your pretty hands in strong soaps. And there can be but one answer.

Now a Gentle Way

As world's experts in beauty, we have developed a new idea in a household soap.

It cannot injure sensitive skin—nor delicate fabrics.

We call it Green Arrow. Olive oil is one of its chief ingredients. It is like a fine toilet soap, yet cleanses more quickly—more safely—than the strongest old-time soap.

HIGHWAY WORKMEN ARE GIVEN "SHOTS"

Hypodermics Given Paving Gang Following Outbreak of Typhoid in Road Camp.

All workmen connected with the county paving force working on the Evansville road were given hypodermic treatments for typhoid Wednesday, according to Commissioner Charles E. Moore.

Six of the afflicted men are in hospitals and five others at their homes.

The sick workmen have been replaced by the county and the paving work continued.

"The state medical authorities have not been able to trace the cause for the outbreak," stated Commissioner Moore. "The typhoid started from some carrier other than water apparently, for the camp is furnished with a 3 foot well protected by gravel and the tests made fail to show typhoid."

Road authorities are concerned over the shattering of the concrete on the Edgerton road near the county farm. The "road blow-up" and space of the pavement cross-ways was disintegrated. The hit caused intense expansion and resulted in the explosion. This is the second time the expansion explosions have shattered parts of the road this year.

Fr. Morisey First Catholic Priest in Janesville

Among the interesting scenes in the pageant "The Land of Black Hawk" were the historically correct representations of the Indian cultures and the first services held in Janesville. Rev. Jesse Haistead, a traveling preacher held the first outdoor meetings here. Coming from Milwaukee was Fr. Morisey, one of the three Catholic missionaries in Wisconsin, who arrived on horseback with his prayer book and crucifix in his saddle bags. Later in life Fr. Morisey was priest of one of the most important churches in Milwaukee and citizen of renown. He is mentioned in history of Milwaukee and in a brochure on the Catholic missions in the Wisconsin Historical Collections. In Episode four and five of the settlement of Janesville these advance agents of the Gospel are seen.

Another interesting historical fact has been dug up. It is that after Lincoln entered the army as a private he was with Atkinson's troops and on the march up the Rock River. The incident is saving of the Old San Indian, shown in the Pageant, is told as having happened at the camp of the army near Storr's lake east of Milton. The Indian was saved, left with food and water, but was killed by other militiamen.

Her first position in Janesville was at the Adams school where she taught the second grade for two years. For the past two years Austin taught the first grade of the Washington school, her home ward school.

Her lovable disposition endeared her to all the children and her untiring patience with them made them and their parents her loyal friends.

At the age of 8, Miss Austin joined the local Methodist church and was for years identified with its activities.

Those who survive are her mother, Mrs. Nellie Austin, her father having passed away in May, 1906; one sister, Miss Julia Austin, at home; seven brothers, A. G. C. P. W. D. George M., Ira D. Frank and H. D. Austin, all of Janesville. A sister, Alice Austin, died in infancy.

Mr. Harding Has the Right of Way.

President Warren G. Harding has made it almost impossible for any other republican to be nominated at a national convention for the presidency. First his utterances on the world court have reduced the fortifications of the enemy within the party lines, and made surrender necessary. And whatever there may have been in the past inviting an interrogation in reference to the president's position on the 18th amendment has been clarified by the address in which he unequivocally took position against the liquor interests and declared himself, not only for law enforcement, but a genuine prohibitionist in principle. He has answered many questions which have heretofore jumbled the political belief and actions of some of the great men of the nation.
There have been many of our legislative and congressional leaders who have side-stepped the issue, have voted for law enforcement and who have themselves been personally wet. There is nothing equivocal about what the president says.
He is for the 18th amendment. He believes that there is only a small minority that thinks the 18th amendment will ever be repealed. And as to the Volstead law, there may be modifications
but they will be toward making that law stronger and stronger.

 represent the sincere purpose of effective enforcement rather than moderation of the general policy. It will be a part of wisdom to reognize the facts as they stand.

This will put greater heart into the wavering,
add to the open advocates of prohibition a large army of persons who have been willing to wait for the movement of the tide. It has placed the republican party back of effective enforcement of the liquor laws and disarmed the wet majority so that a show of strength by it in a national convention will be practically impossible.

Today it would seem that only two candidates will be presented at the next national convention of the republicans—Warren G. Harding and Robert M. LaFollette, who is always a candidate, and will have a number of votes from Wisconsin
and perhaps a few scattering from Minnesota and neighboring states. But it will be a pitiful minority, at that.

The democratic party faces a dilemma. Its most painful moment is when it contemplates the possibility of Henry Ford's nomination. Ford is working now to that end. He has no chance in the republican party convention since he has declared himself on more than one occasion as a democrat. He has announced that he might be a candidate if an organized body showed he was wanted. What other body is there beside the democratic party that might want him? Surely he could not be expected to win from a farmer-labor convention nor a socialist, nor a socialist-labor, nor one fathered by the more or less no-norous committee of 48.

The wet must of necessity seek solace within the ranks of the democratic party. But the south dominates that party and with dry western states holds the majority in the convention. New York has been frequently defeated both in its support and on its support of specific platform principles in democratic conventions. Al Smith cannot hope to win, nor will those who back him be able to dictate the nomination. They have one way out —to ignore the liquor question and fill the platform with platitudes about the League of Nations, dead since 1920. It looks as though the "small wet minority" will have a bad time of it in party platforms with the goal of repealing the 18th amendment ahead of them in 1924.

Mr. Blaine's Smoke Screen.

Whenever Governor Blaine is balked he begins to flay the newspapers. In the veto message on the gasoline tax bill he makes the excuse that the legislation for taxation has been defeated
by the attitude of the newspapers of the state.
That is a smoke screen to hide the failure of his own party to pass his favorite measures. It may be that some will take him seriously. The statements against the governor's and all other bills in the legislature are not of and by the newspapers first, but by men who are leaders in Mr.
Blaine's own faction who have failed to accept his dictum that one thing was so when they knew it was not. They have questioned the honesty of these bills in both purpose and operation.

If the governor has any one to fight it is some of the members of his own party who saw through the bills he and others proposed and that they were so cleverly worded as not to relieve the farmer at all but to attack industry and income and gather in a great revenue larger than by any possible economic government the state could need. If the governor wants to raise that as an issue and fight a battle on that platform he is welcome and no screen of smoke will hide the facts.

The Gazette was opposed to the gasoline tax.
Some of its reasons were restated in the veto of the governor. Always during the hearings on the bill one was airy told that there would be no trouble to collect the tax. But the temptation for "bootlegging" gasoline was there and invited evasion in a half dozen ways. The Gazette held from the first that it was not a privilege tax but a sales tax and as a sales tax it was also an import tax.

Having vetoed the gas tax Mr. Blaine will now ask Mr. Hirst what he is going to do about it.

To Ridgway and Blaine: "Go it, Sir! Go it bold!"

Interviewing An Indian Chief

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—The face of Two Guns White Calf is probably better known than that of any other Indian now living. There are millions of buffalo nickels in existence, and Two Guns' profile is on every one of them.

The possessor of this unusual kind of fame has been here as a participant of a rodeo. We sought out this Blackfoot chief in his tepee. He gravely invited us in and motioned to a seat on an army cot. He then settled himself on one side of the visitor, and his interpreter took his place on the other side.

For the visitors, later, Two Guns would don his war paint. His morning costume, however, consisted of a jade green shirt, blue denim trousers, and moccasins. He tossed on the floor his farmer's straw hat, leaving the famous profile in full relief. Two Guns has the Indian features—strong nose, high cheek bones, set mouth—in bold relief.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

There is no comfort greater than this:
To see at dusk the shades of evening fall
And know yourself full worthy of the kiss
Of welcome which in happiness and bliss
The children run to give you in their play.
Should at your doorway care and sorrow call,
The bring the griefs no mortal life can miss.
Happy the man who, looking back at night,
Can see no shame to trail him through the years.

No need of his to cause his loved ones tears.
No weakness which has turned him from the right!

Who has not, for some selfish joy to gain,
Added to life one needless hour of pain.

Q. Is it proper to put awnings on your house
if it has no northern exposure?

A. The common awning or ceremonial observed by polite society are that you may put awnings on your house with the northern ex-posure. This will show that you care nothing about money.

Q. Is it proper to bow to your brother who is regulating traffic on Fifth avenue while monitoring with a gentleman friend?

A. The observance of the proprieties requires by good breeding permit you to bow to your brother even if he were going to be hung.

Q. Would you advise sending a young girl to Paris for the finishing touches to her education?

A. It will probably "finish" her.—Marcel

Who's Who Today

CHARLES D. HILLIS

The appointment eventually of Charles D.
Hillis as bicameral of the Republican National Committee is predicted by politicians at the national capital. Hillis, if appointed, will succeed
John T. Adams.

Adams and President Harding do not agree on the world court question. Hillis has been in complete accord with the president's views and has had several conferences with the chief executive.

He was talked of for the chairmanship post when Hillis Hillis stepped down to join the cabinet. Hillis has been mentioned at various times for important posts in the Harding administration.

Charles Dewey Hillis was born in Belmont county, Ohio, June 23, 1887. He was graduated from the student academy at Oxford, Maryland in 1887. Hillis has long been interested in the care of delinquent children.
He was superintendent of the boys' industrial school at Lancaster, Ohio; superintendent of the New York juvenile asylum; treasurer of the New York child labor commission.

In 1909 Hillis was assistant secretary of the U. S. treasury. He was secretary to President Taft in 1911.

If Hillis should become chairman of the Republican national committee he would be familiar with the duties of the office since he held that position from 1912 to 1916.

New York city is Hillis' home.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

The Tribune and the Biblical Marriage Feast.
The Chicago Tribune and William Jennings
Bryan have recently "crossed swords" in Tribune columns. The newspaper crossed the line with a "wet" editorial, criticizing Mr. Bryan, and then having reference to the miracle of Christ at the marriage feast at Cana. Mr. Bryan came back at the Tribune with a letter which The Tribune published on its front page. In the course of the letter Mr. Bryan declared that The Tribune in criticizing him editorially had misquoted him and had given the public a false impression of him and his Christian politics. He also objected to The Tribune's mention of the Christians at the Cana marriage feast where Jesus turned water into wine.
As a parting shot, the newspaper answered Bryan's letter editorially stating that: "We are not quarreling with Mr. Bryan because he believes in disabilities, but because he wants laws
to make other people do and think as he does."

As far as the argument is concerned, Mr.
Bryan is unquestionably right and The Tribune is unquestionably wrong. No individual or individuals, newspaper or otherwise, has any right to claim that generation to ring up the far-funge past. In this matter that Jesus Christ, while He was on earth, favored "wetness" as we in this modern day know it, understand it.
People who claim that Jesus Christ was not quarreling with Mr. Bryan because he believes in disabilities, but because he wants laws
to make other people do and think as he does.

Q. Are mosquitoes attracted to certain colors? R. F. D. M.

People in the house are apt to take refuge behind objects and are cunning enough to settle on dark wood rather than light. It is said that they are attracted to black clothing rather than grey or light brown, and that they prefer dark blue and violet to yellow and red.

Q. How is the term 1 per cent grade used on railroad tracks?

A. It is used in reference to the incline of the track and means that there is a rise of one foot to each 100 feet of track.

Q. Can I regain my value for gas-work or merchandise lost in the mail? J. T. M.

A. The postoffice department says that indemnity for lost mail can only be claimed when the parcels lost were delivered, insured or sent collect on delivery.

Q. How are diamonds tested?

A. The geological survey says that the ordinary tests to determine the genuineness of a diamond are to test its specific gravity, hardness and refractive index. When this is desired the diamond is placed in a special apparatus.

An ordinary fire will not affect a diamond
if only the atmosphere of the air is present. Diamonds are the hardest substance known.

Q. Please give recipe for mar-malo cherries. J. R.

A. The formula is a trade secret.
The following recipe is similar: Stone
the cherries, wash them in vinegar for 24 hours; then drain. Take equal parts cherries and granulated sugar. Mix thoroughly. Spread on platters and keep in cool place for seven days, stirring them each day. Put in jars and seal.

Q. Where is the center of the negro population of the United States?

A. The bureau of census says that the 1920 census located it in the extreme northwestern corner of Georgia,
about 1½ miles northeast of Rising Fawn, Dade county.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

OH, HUM!

The burden of my song, February 22, was "If our head is noisy, sing," rendered with the individual vocal collaboration of Paul V. Winslow attending ear, nose and throat surgeon of the Brooklyn State hospital and vice-president of the National Round Table for Speech Improvement. Dr. Winslow had reported a series of cases in adults and children, in which singing, humming and reading exercises, carefully carried out for the purpose of improving the voice, had produced remarkable results in improving bearing, and in many elderly persons had stopped or greatly relieved head noises. "Lifting the data, I told the world about it here. The low distant hum you notice these days isn't a convention of bumblebees, but of lots of folks humming the consonant 'm'.

"In such a way that the lips can be fatigued with the effort of singing, the head noises will be greatly relieved.

"Albumeen Not from Food.

"Is there any cure for albumen in kidney or Bright's disease? What food is good for albumen?"

"Answer—The presence of albumen does not necessarily mean kidney disease or Bright's disease; in some cases albumen is found in the urine when there is no disease present.

"Bright's disease is not necessarily the result of the food the patient eats. The albumen found in the urine does not come from the albumen in the food, but from the albumen in the blood. A good diet can be had for Bright's disease.

Girlof Ghost Mountain

By J. ALLAN DUNN

Author of "A Man to His Mate," "Rinrock Trail," "The Man Trap." Copyright by Small, Maynard and Company, and published by arrangement with McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. Mary Burrow, with a giant, swede girl, lives on the plateau on top of Ghost Mountain in Arizona. Peter Sheridan, New York lawyer, with tuberculosis, has bought a ranch at the foot of the mountain. His inseparable companion is Red Jackson, foreman of the ranch. They rescue a Chinaman, Quong, from a band of outlaws on the plateau. Peter finds a trail to the ranch on top of the mountain and tows an attempt of the bad gang of Hollister to commit the same. Mary, in love with Peter, follows, seeking revenge, killing him and takes her to the Bonanza mine. On the way he drinks poison mescal and going blind, leaves off and goes to the mine. He is rescued later by Peter, who has ridden after her. Tales of marvelous gold in the canyon are told. Quong, who is one of the band, speaks of a gambling house in San Francisco, the location of the caves and the gold there ready to be taken out. Sheridan and others form an expedition to go in search of the treasure.

The firing ceased. The tongman of Hsu Fu, trapped themselves, faltered, bolted for the passage. The entrance now blazed with light. Shouts and shots mingled with the noise of a starting motor. Sheridan, gun in his hand, leaped to his feet. Related how he revived him. And as he stood uncertain, shaken, dizzy, other figures darted through the narrow way. There were echoes somewhere, scattered living still going on outside, the quick rush of feet, a flying figure that came straight to him, nestling close to the person of a good arm. The face of Mary Burrow lifted to him. He felt the soft warmth of her cheek, the moisture of her tears, her lips meeting his and then her cry, "Peter, Peter! Oh, my dear, my dear!"

The cavern seemed to clear of fog. He saw Stoney grinning at him. He saw Red, gripped tight by Thora, almost lost in her embrace.

"They got away, in one machine," said Stoney. "Some of 'em. We're shy on gas."

He saw the figure of the Sheriff of the County, gun in each hand. Stoney, with this, turned them right with a congratulation. How had they got there? Thora.

He saw Quong, as he released Mary—Quong standing in the center of the White Chapel, in line with the passage, crouching a little, looking intently about him.

A spurt of fire came from one of the inner caves, spouting out between two pillars, just as Quong leaped forward. The bullet hit him, fainted itself below the first. Following it came the gleam of a flung pistol, emptied of its last cartridge, and then the high bounding figure of a Chinaman, a flingsh knife in his hand, his face snarl with hate and murderous resolve. Even in the speed of the lurid spring,

Alkali in Soap Bad for Washing Hair

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

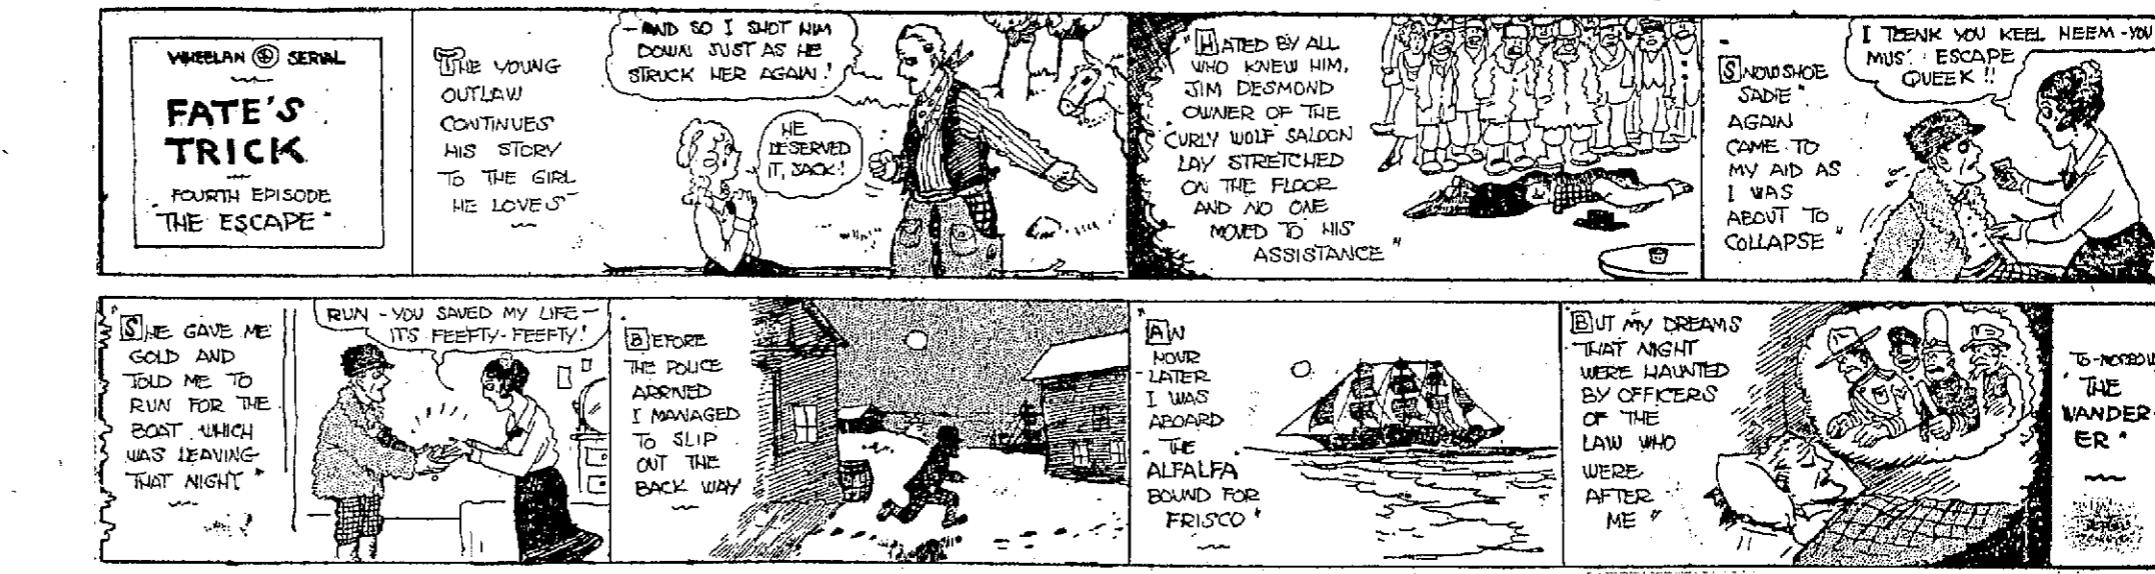

The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily.

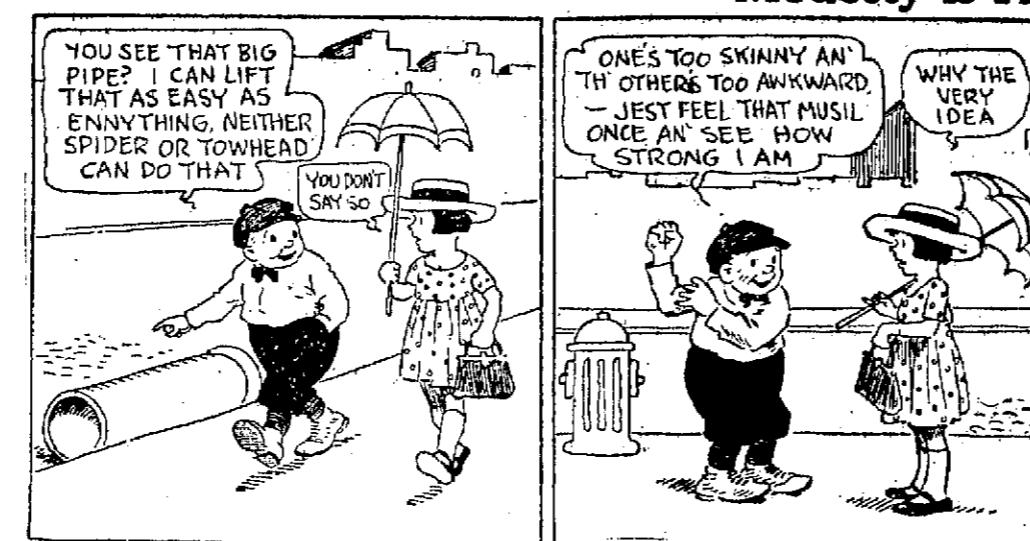

The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright,

TODAY'S RECIPES

Crocole Soup.—One pint soup stock, one-half pint tomatoes, one and one-half tablespoons chopped green peppers, one tablespoon chopped onion, salt, pepper, cayenne, one tablespoon horseradish, one teaspoon Worcester sauce, ingredients to taste.

Orange Jelly.—Two tablespoons gelatin, one-half cup cold water, one-half cup sugar, one and one-half cups orange juice, three tablespoons lemon juice. Soak gelatin in cold water, dissolve in boiling water, strain and add to sugar and fruit juice. Turn into mold and chill.

SUGGESTIONS

Handy Clothes Pin Bag.—Take square of unbleached muslin, sew up sides and bottom, hem in top for cord. Sew half over aluminum coat hanger and other half can be drawn close with cord when not in use. This is very handy; hang on line when hanging clothes.

Stop in front Weather—Many people leave soups out of their menus entirely. They do seem particularly suited to cold weather, but they are an easily digested and nourishing food and it is not good for us to live entirely on cold food even in hot weather. Soups do not have to be served at boiling point, you know; you can even add a few cubes for them when you prefer them warm; however, if they become partly cold before you serve them, Do not let them become cold and greasy, but just cool enough to be eaten (or drunk) comfortably.

Heart and Home Problems

BY FONTAINE FOX

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 17 years old and until lately I have never gone with a boy. About a month ago a boy at school invited me to a dance and after that he came to see me several times. He seemed to like me and I liked him. Now it has been over a week and I have not heard a word from him. Do you think it would be all right for me to telephone him and tell him what is wrong and tell him I would like to have him come over to me? DOROTHY.

No, I would not advise you to telephone the boy. He will come without urging if he wants to. A week or two may bring him for him to stay away and you have no right to be alarmed. Even if he never comes again, your pride should prevent you from asking him or letting him know that you are disappointed.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am in love with a young man who has been brought up in a very religious, fundamental home. Unfortunately, I am the only child of a liberal family, and so the parents of the young man are broken-hearted because of our regard for each other.

He has told me he loves me and he wants to be married either this fall or next spring. I know very well from the way his parents treat me, and from the things his mother has said directly to me, that they bitterly oppose my religion and would do anything to break it up.

The young man I love is not strict in his religious views. I really think I am more religious at heart than he is although I rarely attend church and he goes almost every Sunday to please his parents. He says that from childhood he has had religion forced on him. It has lost all of its spirit of love and beauty and he thinks of it only as a disagreeable duty. I feel that it is most unwise to let him be in that state of mind, and I hope if we do marry that a little more religious freedom will give him the love of God I feel. I do not mean to influence him in any way, but I will never try to force my views on him. If he is perfectly free to worship as he chooses.

household. The Skipper Has No Electricity in His House but in the Evening After He Has Brought the Car Home He Can Sit and Read His Paper by Electric Light Just the Same.

THE BATHING GIRL

The strong sun that comes at the end of June and lasts all through July and August need have no terror for the bathing girl if she takes a few precautions. And the first thing to consider is the bathing suit.

Now the less one has on, in the way of ruffles and flounces, the easier and pleasanter it is to swim and bathe. But if you burn up easily and we keep you skin moderately white you simply must not go in for bathroom decollete on the beach. Personally, I'm in favor of one-piece wetsuit bathing suits for everyone pretty enough to wear one, keeping the more practical suits for those not blessed with a pretty figure. But the cons of bathing suits, morals don't look at it that way, know. This, however, is a digression.

If you want to protect your skin from the sun, have your suit cut with a V opening and a wee collar that covers the back of the neck, and with sleeves half way to the elbow. It's easy to protect the face and throat, but not the back or the shoulders.

Before going on the beach rub the skin full of heavy cold cream, then cover thickly with powder so it won't get shiny in the sun. The sea water will wash off the powder, but that doesn't matter. It won't wash off much of the cream.

In spine, apply a few drops of oil, if you may. If so, rub the skin with oil or butter milk at night and use cucumber lotion or paroxide cold cream after you have washed off the heavy cream put on with your bathing suit. Such precautions are easy to take, and pay.

The thing to try and avoid whenever possible is the constant use of laxative drugs. These only make the trouble worse.

His subject was "Should Wisconsin Follow English Precedents in Reorganizing Its Courts and Improving Its Practice and Procedure?"

Practices Held Too Important

Judge Stevens made a comparison of American and English courts and said that less than one-half of one percent of all the cases in England are decided upon appeal on questions of practice and procedure while in America there are jurisdictions in which as high as 50 percent of the cases reviewed on appeal were decided upon questions of practice and procedure which in no way involved the merits of the controversy.

Best Minds Attracted

Discussing the reasons why the English courts are more efficient he said that the English judges who correspond to the circuit judges here are more learned, more learned and brightened on appointment.

The bench thus attracts the best legal minds of the realm and the English courts are so organized that the time of the judges can always be used to best advantage. He declared the distinguishing feature of English rules is that every step in the procedure, from its inception to its final completion, is controlled by masters with the powers of a judge at chambers whose purpose is to eliminate all unnecessary procedure and expedite the final determination.

U. S. System Antiquated

Judge Stevens said one is constantly impressed with the flexibility of English procedure which makes it taken in the trial of cases than in American courts. Little time is spent in examining jurors and objections are rarely made to leading questions. The trial of all actions in the supreme court of judicature is conducted by 1,000 barristers who devote themselves entirely to trial work and become experts in sifting out the main issues in the case.

The Madison Judge said, "We find in Wisconsin a state court organization that was established in the day of the ox team, the cradle and the sail which has already become a veritable crazy quilt with municipal courts attached here, a superior court there and a county court with civil or criminal jurisdiction somewhere else until the state is a jumble of counties covered with special courts created with no attempt at system, merely to meet the demands of that locality and offering a sharp contrast to the efficient unified courts of England."

Is Call to Service.

He declared that there is so much unnecessary delay and expense incident to appealing and prosecuting cases that the American lawyer should study with care the English appellate procedure. He said most if not all of the rules of practice and procedure can be adopted simply by legislative action. When the question of a re-organization of the courts is considered, he said, the majority of the members of the legislature will be in favor of making constitutional changes," he said.

The present day criticism of our administration of justice constitutes a call to service on the part of the lawyers and judges of Wisconsin," Judge Stevens declared. "The members of our profession have never failed to respond to the call to service. They did not hesitate to sacrifice their lives in the cause of justice called. They will not be found wanting in this new call to service."

every conceivable way without exacting where the responsibility for the high cost of everything begins or ends.

Mr. Harding has set out to show that the states and cities are spending more than the nation and are piling up a debt which is an exaggerated proportionate growth than the federal debt. The statistics which were supplied by the president have some time been made public in Washington and the president chose as a topic for his speech the subject of taxation not for the speech itself but for the case he made for it.

Great Debt of States.

The states have increased their debts. The total of more than a billion dollars which the debts of 227 cities has gone up to nearly four and a half billion.

There are debts in both instances, he said, for 1921 and 1922. He hasn't the data as to what has happened since but he doesn't think the states and cities are cutting down their debts by very much.

He points proudly to the record of the federal government which since the war has steadily reduced the public debt. The total of debts is about twenty two and a half billions or a cut of about five billions.

On the matter of taxes paid however, he was equally emphatic and he emphasized the fact that in 1922 the state and local taxes constituted sixty percent of the nation's entire tax burden.

Mr. Harding impressed his audience with the comparison he made of taxes paid by American citizens and those paid by the German. He showed that while the American with a $6,000 income pays an income tax of sixty-eight dollars, the German of similar income and the Frenchman $38 and the British $20. So the critics will say of course that other expenses—such as the cost of living—have increased but the case of the man with a $6,000 income doesn't touch the real difficulties of America's tax problem as compared with Europe where it is conceded the burden is more evenly distributed so that business is not strangled and retarded by high taxes.

Mr. Harding was striving to round the argument and to prove his point that his tax burden is not so heavy after all and that the states and cities are exacting more from him than the federal government.

From a political angle, the president's tactics were well chosen but from the viewpoint of the economist they were not. There was a controversy over the exact part that the tax burdens play in increasing the cost of the necessities of life. The European countries have been the present generation pay too heavily but have recognized the fact that taxation can restrict a nation's growth. At the same time that its credit reputation may be enhanced by heavy taxes.

Practice Thrift.

Mr. Harding's talk was to the citizenry of the nation to practice thrift and insisted that state and county and city governments do likewise. The federal government had some control indirectly during the war on state and local expenditure. Mr. Harding in his Denver speech recalled the precedent set by President Roosevelt in calling the governors of the states together to get their signatures to the general government and the states, in his speech thus far Mr. Harding has developed the doctrine of closest cooperation between the government of Washington and the several states of the Union. Already a conference has been called to discuss prohibition enforcement by the states and federal government. Maybe there will be an other on taxes.

The president has presented indeed a second plan, that "cooperation" as he calls it, is taxation of the states and city borrowing. The president failed to mention one reason why the states and cities have spent so much more than the federal government, which is that their securities are exempt from federal taxation. At last several states have been able to raise the money they needed for road improvements to keep pace with the growth of population and to catch up with the many projects left undone during the war and immediately thereafter.

Up to Local Politics.

Mr. Harding has opened a subject which the local politicians will not like. Local politicians, he said, have always found some kind of a good issue but when the president criticizes the states and cities and compares in comparison with the federal government, it is a new avenue of approach to the numerous political situations which have in recent years been causing local upheavals and influencing national elections.

REORGANIZATION OF COURTS ASKED

Judge E. Ray Stevens, Formerly of Janesville, Praised English System.

Twenty years' experience on the bench in Wisconsin having shown him that there is a need for change in the organization of the courts and rules of practice and procedure in the second, Judge E. Ray Stevens, who attended the marked advantages of the English court system over that in Wisconsin before the Thursday morning session of the Wisconsin Bar Association at Janesville, who at one time attended school in Janesville, said that as long as the courts are compelled to work under existing legal and judicial conditions, they cannot administer justice speedily and even-handedly. His subject was "Should Wisconsin Follow English Precedents in Reorganizing Its Courts and Improving Its Practice and Procedure?"

Great Debt of States.</p

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

THERE'S this one thing for fighters to stop and do a little thinking about, while they are trying to decide the championship heavyweight battle between the titleholder, Jack Dempsey, and the challenger, Jim Johnson, at Shelby, Mont., July 1. It is: In the past three years Gibbons has had 34 fights; Dempsey, the heavy emperor, has had 62. It may mean nothing—it may mean much. Dempsey's greater weight, his superior punch, his strength, may be sufficient to keep him on top. But how about his eye? There's a little trouble there. The doctor says that is made more keen by judicious use. Has Dempsey given it that use? Has Gibbons? Does this long period of comparative inactivity spell anything? Jack is considered a superman and that is expected to carry him through. Are the men equal enough to make this taylor-worth considering in the light of comparison?

STATISTICS on the men show Dempsey to be 28 years old. He is Irish-American. The champ started boozing in 1915 and has had 60 scrapes. He has been knocked out once, by Jim Flynn, in one round. In 1917, he has been knocked down four times; has boxed four draws and has lost two decisions. He has won 40 fights by knockouts. He won the title by giving Willard the k.o. in three rounds in 1919. He measures 6 ft. 1 in. tall, weighs 138 lbs; nose 16½ in.; ear, normal; 4 in. expanded; 15 in. waist; 33 in. biceps; 34½ in. forearm; 14½ in. wrist; 9 in. thigh; 23 in. calf; 15½ in. ankle; 9 in. reach; 74 in.

GIBBONS is 34 years old, though erroneous stories say he is 29. He started boxing in 1915 and has had 85 fights; he has never been knocked out, nor has he ever been knocked down. He has lost but one decision. He has won 57 battles via the knockout route. He has won on the k.o. in his last 38 fights. He has had 34 fights in the last three years. His measurements show him to be, at 18½ years: 6 ft. 2 in.; chest, normal; 40 in.; chest, expanded, 44 in.; waist, 34 in.; biceps, 14½ in.; forearm, 13 in.; wrist, 9 in.; thigh, 22 in.; calf, 15½ in.; ankle, 9 in.; reach, 74 in.

Zev, champion 3-year-old, suffered slight injury in training and is withdrawn from Latonia derby.

Johnson Weismiller lowers own swim record for 500 yards in 73-foot tank to 8:20.2-5, cutting .31.8-5 from mark.

Sister, first baseman of St. Louis Americans, out with eye trouble, says she'll be able to play shortly.

Waygood wins 5,000 guinea Irish derby.

Diamond Sparkles (By A. P.)—New York and Philadelphia battle for first place in American and the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati for second place in National. Reds are game five behind Pittsburgh. Athletics are five behind Yanks. Pirates are four and half games behind Giants. Giants won ninth straight, 15-5, in 11 innings, making seven runs in final. Frisch, "Fordham Flash," first player in majors to reach 100 hit mark this season. Against sterner attack, Pirates have shown good form, Wednesday night, four straight victories. St. Louis, 6-6, giving them clean sweep of series. Philadelphia fell victim before Brooklyn, 15-5. It was open day in American league—Detroit and St. Louis battle Thursday for last place in first division. Chicago will try to dispel shadow of the Cleveland look-alike dark horse while Boston and Washington struggle over last place. Max Carey, fleet-footed outfielder of Pirates and team mate, Harold Tracy, fattened batting averages against Cardinals twirlers, each poling three hits. Carey made a triple and double. Both former Princeton, N. J., Indians, made major debut with Brooklyn at short. Joe Dugan singled, scored run and accepted dive chance in field without wobble. Norman Eberle, third baseman of Dodgers indefinitely suspended because of alteration with umpires.

Charges that U. S. boxer association teams are professional are denied.

Hornby's wife granted divorce and custody of son.

Trainload of horses enroute to Chicago for Hawthorne meet, opening Saturday.

The Big Fight—They're up in the air again at Shelby. Treasurer Dan Tracy resigns and Mayor Jim Johnson is in charge again. Johnson says he'll guarantee final payment of $100,000. St. Paul offers to hold the fight, guardianship, $60,000. Great Northern, holding, declines to aid in financing. Lightweights do not give Dempsey much of a work out. The champion looks slower than at time of Carpenter scrap. Gibbons boxing at long range, doing but little hugging or heavy mauling. Prohibitionists flood Shelby to stop any flood.

Seven eastern colters and one from west coast still in national public links golf meet.

Johnny Hagen's bow about not being permitted to use punched clubs in British open gets a little support.

Penn state gives coaching course for women.

Scraps About Scappers—Lew Tender starts training in Chicago for bout with Sailor Freedman at Michigan city, July 4. Joe Becker and George Carpenter, to meet July 20 at McKinley Walker, welterweight champion, will meet Pete Laizzo; Jack Bernstein, junior lightweight champion, will fight Harry (Kid) Brown; and Pancho Villa, world's flyweight king, will meet Kid Herman, all on same card at Philadelphia, July 4.

Although it had a lead start of 15 lengths, Umbria lost Aqueduct race.

McCoogan, who now calls Brooklyn his home, has been matched for a 1000-yard race at the track, the Toledo Lightfoot, to take place June 22 at Dayton, O.

July 4 Go Devolves on Kearns as Treasurer Quits

Copyright 1920, by Geo. McManus

BIG TITLE SCRAP UP IN AIR AGAIN, MUDDLE FINANCES

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Great Falls, Mont.—Prospects of holding the Jack Dempsey-Tommy Gibbons heavyweight championship fight at Shelby July 4, Thursday revolved around Jack Kearns, manager of the world's champion, who returned to Great Falls, bringing with him Mayor Jim Johnson of Shelby, treasurer of the American legion committee promoting the bout.

The resignation of Dan Tracy, pioneer Great Falls mining man and hotel owner, as manager of the business end of the fight, darkened the situation, with the prospect of meeting the final $100,000 installment due Dempsey on his $90,000 guarantee very remote.

STATISTICS on the men show Dempsey to be 28 years old. He is Irish-American. The champ started boozing in 1915 and has had 60 scrapes. He has been knocked out once, by Jim Flynn, in one round. In 1917, he has been knocked down four times; has boxed four draws and has lost two decisions. He has won 40 fights by knockouts. He won the title by giving Willard the k.o. in three rounds in 1919. Johnson to Finance

Johnson declared he is prepared to personally guarantee the final payment due Dempsey, backing his statement with assertion he has property valued at $350,000 which he would pledge if necessary.

GIBBONS is 34 years old, though erroneous stories say he is 29. He started boxing in 1915 and has had 85 fights; he has never been knocked out, nor has he ever been knocked down. He has lost but one decision. He has won 57 battles via the knockout route. He has won on the k.o. in his last 38 fights. He has had 34 fights in the last three years. In a long, but interesting game at the fair grounds, Saturday, with the fight the main feature, the Bankers, who form a team in the city industrial league baseball contest, 14 to 9. The win puts the "cow mauls" and the "monkeys changers" in a tie for seventh position.

"Bob" Lathrop was off form for the Bankers. In the first stanza, the Dalymen got eight hits and 11 runs. He was relieved by Bert Clegg, who pitched a six-hitter and had three runs thrown.

Varley and Thompson scored homers. Allen pitched steady ball and was given fair support.

Practice Friday will put the Tanks at the fair grounds the Chevrolet, Woolen Mills at fair grounds, with Parker Pen and the Black Hawks at Silverview.

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN WITH EXERCISES

Each of the five city playgrounds will open at different hours Friday afternoon, in order that more ceremony and music may attend each opening, and the following is the schedule made out by V. E. Klenz, director of playgrounds and beaches, together with the school-board committee:

1:30—Webster, in charge of Messdames Roy Worthington, W. W.
Barry, F. W. Watson and Peter Kelly.

2:30—Douglas, in charge of Mrs.
Barbey, President of the P.T.A.
association; assisted by Miss Ethel-dorff and Mrs. William Bradish.

2:30—Washington, Mrs. A. Wob-big, chairman, Mrs. Burr Tolles and Mrs. Louis Gesteland in charge.

3:00—Adams, Mrs. H. J. Green and committee in charge.

3:30—Katherine, Mrs. G. W. Ehr-linger and committee in charge.

School Band to Play

Program at all grounds will be somewhat the same, say officials. The high school band of 60 pieces will go from one playground to the other to be present at the openings. Ceremonies will open with a band, followed by flag raising and salute with "The Star Spangled Banner," and then a speaker to be a different one at each grounds. Committee in charge will arrange for the speaker.

Activities Start Afterward

No apparatus will be up and there will be no activities at any playground until the completion of its respective program to be the official opening. As soon as the program is over, all apparatus will be put up and directors at each grounds will start games and activities.

While it is assured that large numbers of children will be at the grounds, it is flushed to have also a good turn-out of citizens.

New System of Traffic Markers Tried Out Here

A new system of traffic direction markers is being tried out in Janesville this week and will receive the approval of Chief Charles Newman and the police department. The experiment is being conducted at the intersection of North Jackson and Wall streets, the city hall corner, and motorists generally are observing the new signs, police say.

The markers are similar to the mushroom markers in use here, the only difference being that they are smaller and are not electrically lighted. Four are used at each intersection, instead of one as under the present mushroom system. Each marker is 15 inches in diameter and about three inches high at the center, so that if struck by a car the pole could not be as disastrous as a meeting with a mushroom light. They are painted yellow and bear the lettering "Keep to the Right." The construction is solid cast iron, with holes so they may be attached to the pavement with bolts. They are painted a bright yellow.

Instead of being located at the center of the intersection, one is located at the inner corner and middle of each of the four crosswalks. The police declare the system particularly successful in regulating cars turning and doing away with the "cutting" of corners.

The four now in place will remain here until July 1, having been installed at Madison's concern. The council will investigate the company's proposal to sell $5,000 worth of city for $500 or a lesser number at 20 per cent. Each set contains four markers.

Legal Profession Offers More Opportunities Than 40 Years Ago, Say Jurists

That the legal profession offers more opportunities for the young man of today than the lawyer of 40 years ago, was the substance of statements made by prominent judges and attorneys in Janesville attending the state convention of the Wisconsin Bar Association.

The attorneys emphasized the point that the attorney who competes in the present day organization of the bar must be a highly trained individual. With added bar requirements the person who is admitted at the present time is a better trained lawyer than in the past, they said.

"There are exceptional opportunities in law for the young man of today," said Judge Martin Wade of Milwaukee. "The profession is not overcrowded. Even if it were there is always room for the well qualified. With present day conditions the young attorney has much more chance to acquaint himself quickly with bar conditions than the older men."

Dean Pound's Opinion

The profession has always been called the "old boys' room." There is ever room for the trained young man. Whether there is any difference between the lawyer of today and those of 40 years ago I do not know. Changing conditions have altered the circumstances but I feel safe in saying that the college graduate of today comes favorably with the men of the past.

Circuit Judges S. E. Smalley, Lancaster, and Fred Esslinger, Oshkosh, were also inclined to believe that opportunity is ever present for the qualified. Both believed that the lawyers of today are better because of the high moral requirements for admission to the bar.

New Legislation Needed

Both Judge Wade and Dean Pound criticized the belief that action should be taken to curb the mass of legislation added each year. Changing conditions, they said, have necessitated changing laws. Both however agreed that there is undoubtedly legislation that is unnecessary.

"We have always had the complaint that we have too many laws," Dean Pound said, "but changing laws have resulted in new laws."

"Of course there are some foolish laws passed by our legislators," Judge Wade continued. "Due to legislation attempting to make records for themselves, they make laws to mind. I think that our country is expanding and needs new laws. I think that a competent board should be created in
